more about the risks associated with things such as high blood pressure and undiagnosed sleep apnea, then you come up with a lab method that lets you measure whether the drug is inducing the change you hope for—stopping an enzyme from working properly, for example..."