"I heard them maybe one out of every four," she said.

Soy protein is a rich source of isoflavones (which are natural compounds found in some plant foods), which inhibit the action of key enzymes and growth factors required for cancer growth.

I think the website rocks and I hope it will help you also.